

Senor Monzo Will Address Students On Disarmaments

Meeting Will Be Held In Strathcona Hall,
Today

CAMPAIGN EFFECTIVE

Speaker To Present South American Views On Disarmaments

Due to the interest shown in Disarmament by McGill students, a meeting will be held in Strathcona Hall at five o'clock today. The guest speaker will be Senor Julio Navarro Monzo, noted South American Philosopher, and Scholar.

The McGill Disarmament Committee urges all those interested in the campaign to come to the meeting. Petition forms will be on hand, and those who have not had the opportunity to sign up may do so. After the address a brief meeting of the Disarmament Committee will be held.

Travelled Extensively

Senor Monzo has written twenty volumes, and ten booklets. The greatest part of these volumes deal

Varsity Urges Abolition of C.O.T.C.

(Special to McGill Daily)

Toronto, November 3. — In an article appearing in the "Varsity," University of Toronto paper today, it was urged that the Toronto branch of the Canadian Officers' Training Corps be abolished.

"A militaristic organization," the editorial reads in part, "has not any place in an institution whose purpose is solely academic. It has no place in a community whose members have continually expressed themselves as fervently desiring universal peace. The existence of such a department, is an incongruous, a ridiculous anomaly. Its abolition is a thing emphatically to be desired."

Having travelled extensively in the South American Republics, Senor Monzo knows the general attitude

Students In Music Plan Entertainment

Conservatorium Club Will Have Athletics and Dramatics

Despite the small attendance last night, the business of the meeting of the Conservatorium Club, under the direction of Dean Douglas Clarke, was carried out, of which the most important was the question of the recent obligation of physical education for Conservatorium students. Committees and captains for the various teams were also appointed.

The overtures of the Conservatorium authorities were met with enthusiasm by the Athletic Board and all facilities for games and sports are to be given to the students. Interfaculty matches will be arranged and captains have been appointed for teams in all lines of sport.

Harrison Jones is the Athletic Secretary in charge of the general activities. Catherine Judah was elected swimming captain and C. L. Shepherd, Captain of Basketball.

An all year round club taking in skiing, snow-shoeing, and hiking was suggested by the Dean, and the winter's activities at least will be arranged by Jack Waud.

A program of amusement has been adopted by the Club, in the formation of a circle for arousing interest in dramatics, a program which it is expected will provide much entertainment for both the actors and the on-lookers. Jack Waud will be in charge of this department of the many-sided club.

Dr. Keys Addresses

Physical Society Friday
"Electrical Methods of Prospecting Compared in the Field" will be the subject of Dr. D. A. Keys, F.R.S.C., when the Physical Society holds their next meeting on Friday, November 6th at 5 p.m. in the main lecture theatre of the Macdonald Physics Building.

Hung Tao Society To Hear Dr. Kiang On Chinese Books

THE first regular meeting of the Hung Tao Society for the Session 1931-32, will be held this evening at 8:30 in the Common Room of the Royal Victoria College.

Dr. Kiang Kang-hu will deliver the first of a series of lectures on the Great Books, the subject being the Su Shu, or "Four Books." The "Four Books" is an important group of the Chinese Classics comprising "The Confucian Analects," "The Great Learning," "The Doctrine of the Mean," and "The Works of Mencius."

The Hung Tao Society, formed a year ago for the study of Chinese thought, invites all students to join in membership. A business meeting will follow the lecture.

Students Abusing Tramways Rights

Reflect Discredit On McGill By Giving False Dates

ALL COVET PASSES Future Offenders To Be Dealt With Severely By Students' Council

The Registrar of the University has brought to the attention of the Students' Council a rather serious situation in regard to the abuse of the reduced rate privilege extended by the Montreal Tramways Company to students under the age of seventeen years.

Many of the applications made by students for passes have included falsified birth dates, in order to come within the eighteen year age limit. The Registrar, who is asked to confirm the accuracy of these statements, has been forced in each case to notify the Tramways Company that the students in question have given false information.

Reflection on University.

Alex. Edmison, President of the Students' Council, in a letter to the "Daily" pointed out that aside from any question of personal honour involved, it is a very poor reflection on the University for such misrepresentation to have occurred. Further complications arise when it is quite apparent that the Tramways Company will possibly cease granting the privilege at all because of this abuse.

At a meeting of the Students' Council on Monday it was decided that any students making the above misrepresentation in future will be severely dealt with by the Students' Council with the consequent publicity. The Registrar will forward the names of all offenders in the future. A letter on this subject appears in the Correspondence Column of today's issue.

Donations Needed To Reach Objective

McGill Students Behind In Federated Charities Drive

The time set aside to bring the Federated Charities before the public eye is past. This year McGill set its objective at over $2,000. So far, barely the half mark has been passed. The only department which has reached its objective is the M.S.P.E. However, those in charge are confident that the students will rise to the occasion by helping those less fortunate than themselves in worldly goods. There is still time for those who have not done so, to hand in their contributions.

The contributions received from faculties and schools as reported last night were:

Arts and Science	$193.30
R. V. C.	204.33
Engineering	86.30
Commerce	132.75
Architecture	28.50

Man Of God Ought To Combine Three Essential Elements

Canon W. H. Davison Addressed Diocesan College Freshmen At Banquet

IDEALISM NEEDED

Pollard, Bourne and Thorpe Also Address Gathering Last Night

"The man of God should be a finished product, socially, intellectually and above all spiritually," said Canon W. H. Davison, rector of the Church of St. John the Evangelist to the freshmen of the Diocesan Theological College who were gathered last night in the dining hall of the college for the annual Freshman dinner.

The speaker in the course of his address of welcome to the newcomers emphasized the fact that in addition to regular and progressive development in these three phases, all of which are essential, a true sense of vocation and a high idealism are no less necessary to the divinity student.

Should Make Friends.

The Canon went on to say that students at college should lose no opportunity of widening the circle of their acquaintances and thus gaining valuable experience for their work in later life. Intellectual achievements at the university, maintained the Canon are not the culmination and the end of such endeavour, for the student may regard them only as foundations for later studies. In the spiritual sphere of the student life, not only public worship in the College chapel, which is really the devotional centre of college life, but private prayer ought to be stressed.

The other speakers were Samuel Lister Pollard, the chairman, who officially welcomed the freshmen and proposed the toast to them. The Freshman representative, A. H. Bourne, who modestly informed the seniors that he had been chosen by lot and not because of exceptional ability, described what in his opinion were the strengths and weaknesses of conditions at Divinity Hall. He remarked upon the different attitudes adopted by students of his

Bible Study Group To Meet Thursday

Students Can Still Join Prof. R. B. Y. Scott's Course

The introductory group on the Study of the Bible which Prof. R. B. Y. Scott of the United College successfully inaugurated last week will continue this week on Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m. in Strathcona Hall.

Prof. Scott last week reviewed the general history of the Bible and its composition, but this week he will deal with the development of the literature of the old Testament.

There is still room in the group for all people who would like to pursue this informal discussion of the Bible and its meaning for the day it has been announced that those who were forced to miss last week's meeting because of conflicting engagements are assured that they can easily pick up the threads of the discussion where it was dropped last time. Prof. Scott will give a brief resume of his points last week in order that those who are joining the group late will not miss the essentials.

A very urgent invitation is extended to all students who would like to pursue this very valuable study. The group will meet in the future every second week.

Cowansville Audiences

Addressed By Dr. Kiang

On Sunday, November the first Dr. Kiang Kang-hu, Professor of Chinese Studies, was a guest speaker at the United Church of Canada, Cowansville, Quebec. He delivered two addresses, the subject of one being, "The Development of the Educational System in China." In the evening he spoke on his recent visit to China. Both meetings were well attended, many people coming from neighboring towns in the vicinity.

Johnson Elected

President Of Arts '35
At a well attended meeting of the Arts '35 class in Moyse Hall yesterday, the election of class officers took place. Several candidates were nominated for each office and the following were elected:
President: Arnold Johnson. Vice-President: T. D. Grier. Secretary: Treasurer: J. L. Armstrong.

P.C. Armstrong to Talk On Wheat At Commerce Society

WHEAT will be the subject on which the guest speaker, Mr. P. C. Armstrong will address the Commerce students at the first Commercial Society luncheon at noon Thursday in the Union Grill Room. Mr. Armstrong is a well-known economic expert and a member of the staff of the C. P. R.

A graduate engineer, he spent a great deal of time as a farmer and later left both spheres to become an economist. In collaboration with Professor Swanson of the University of Manitoba, he wrote a book on the wheat situation.

The executive of the Commercial Society have been assured by Corden's of having a meal complete from celery and olives to apple pie a la mode. Tickets will be sold at the usual price and may be procured from class officers, Bill Gentleman, and the Tuck Shop. A special table has been reserved for women students.

Visit To Brewery Made By Students

Members Of Arts '33 Class Visit Plant DRINKS DISTRIBUTED

Complete Process Of Method Of Beer Production Witnessed

A complete inspection of Dawes Brewery plant was made yesterday afternoon by a group of students of the Arts '33 class under the guidance of L. J. Weir, the room-master of the plant. The group, consisting of about thirty students, assembled in front of the Arts Building at three o'clock, and then proceeded directly to the largest Ale Brewery concern in America.

On their arrival at the building, they were first conducted to the Pasteurization Room where the bottled beer is heated to 145 degrees F., is kept at that temperature, and then cooled off again, each process lasting for twenty minutes. This dispenses with the use of preservatives and also destroys any yeast or living organisms which may be left in the beer or bottle. Each bottle is washed and carefully inspected after which it runs along a machine where it is filled with the ale and finally corked by an automatic machine which produces a pressure of 650 pounds.

Processes Outlined

The different processes in the production of the ale itself were then outlined and demonstrated. A sugar solution of the malt extract is boiled for four hours and Canadian made barley and hops are then added. This solution is then cooled and aerated with filtration in the Cooler Room and is now prepared to receive the yeast. The latter is pumped up, treated with the malt extract and a slow fermentation occurs whereby alcohol and carbonic acid is formed.

The beer is then led out of the large bins and a large gummy mass containing mostly yeast and hops remains, this being finally led out and rolled up into narrow strips. The beer is kept for three months in 20 large storage tanks, each having a capacity for 17,000 gallons.

Sample Drinks Offered

The inspection was appropriately terminated by a trip to the visitors room, where all the students were invited to partake of the beverage, in whose production a great deal of interest was taken. Questions were asked and congenially replied by the guide, Mr. L. Weir, who clearly explained all the complicated processes in the production of the ale.

Trip To Toronto

Students Can Travel With Team At Reduced Rates

There will be an opportunity for students to make a trip to Toronto with the rugby team this week-end at greatly reduced rates. Major Forbes announces. The rugby team and Band are making the trip in a special car, and there will be room for twenty more students in it.

The C.P.R. train leaves Windsor Station Friday at three p.m. and arrives in Toronto six and a quarter hours later. Tickets may be obtained from Major Forbes, and cost only the single fare rate for a return ticket. The return ticket is good over the week-end.

Low Temperature Carbonization Is Topic Of Lecture

Mr. Tasker, Expert From Ontario Research Foundation Spoke

EXPLAINS PROCESSES

Statistics Show That All Known Methods Are Commercially Unbound

Low temperature carbonization was the topic of a symposium last evening at which the principle speaker was Mr. Tasker of the Ontario Research Foundation. The discussion, held in the Physics Building, was under the direction of Professor Thompson of the Fuel Engineering department of McGill University.

As Professor Thompson said, Mr. Tasker was exceptionally capable of handling his subject, due to the fact that he has spent several years in research experiments pertaining to low temperature carbonization. By way of introduction he pointed out that between twenty-five and thirty dollars have been spent in North America alone on this particular sector of fuel technology.

History Briefly Outlined

It was shown by Mr. Tasker that although experiments on low temperature carbonization were feebly pursued as far back as 1655, it was not until the Great War that serious research on this subject was undertaken on a large scale. In 1917, the Fuel Research Board was established in England and from then until the present day, there has been a steady increase in the knowledge of this vast topic.

The lecturer explained that there are three types of processes employed in low temperature carbonization of coal, external heating, internal heating and a combination of external and internal heating.

Describes Processes

Because there are several hundred processes in existence, it was naturally impossible for a detailed explanation of each to be given. However, Mr. Tasker chose a few of the more successful processes, and gave interesting descriptions of these, aided

Students From B.C. Plan Supper Dance

Annual Reunion To Be Held Next Tuesday

Plans are now completed for the annual reunion to be held on Tuesday, Nov. 10th, of British Columbia students who are attending McGill University. This reunion will consist of a supper dance at the Golden Dome Cabaret, where the whole of the mezzanine floor has been reserved for the occasion.

Besides those students who are attending McGill the dance is open to alumni of the University of British Columbia. Those in charge of the affair believe that the dance in other years has proved a success, and that this year's will be even better than usual.

All those who intend to be present are asked to get in touch with any member of the committee in charge. The committee consists of Grace Freeborn, Peggy Porter, Ferdie Munro, Jim Clark, and Rod Foote.

Talks On Vocation

Gertrude Rutherford, S.C.M. Secretary, Visiting McGill

Gertrude Rutherford, National Secretary of the S.C.M. of Canada, is visiting McGill today and will remain until Sunday night, speaking at several meetings during that time. Tomorrow afternoon at R.V.C. she will speak to the women students on vocations for college graduates, and on Sunday, at the monthly tea she will talk on some of the recent books of interest to students.

Miss Rutherford will also be at the Joint Cabinet supper and discussion meeting at six tonight, and will speak on Friday to the canvassers for the financial campaign of the S. C. A. of R. V. C. at lunch in Strathcona Hall.

Daily Reporters Will Con- vene In Union Tonight

All reporters of the Daily are expected to attend the gathering this evening in the Union at 7:45. Speeches, refreshments, and a visit to the "Gazette" are on the program. Both men and women members of the staff are required to be present.

Dr. Fox Surveys McGill Museums

Director of Welsh National Museum Arrived Monday

METHODS CHANGE

Education In Natural History Aided By Showing Exhibits

The recent change in education methods have been great according to Dr. Cyril Fox, director of the National Museum of Wales, who has arrived in Montreal to undertake a survey of Museums for McGill University, the Art Association of Montreal, and the Chateau de Ramezay. After remaining in the city for two weeks he will return to Wales and there prepare a report on them.

Since civilisation realised that a universal system of education was needed many systems have been adopted. Originally it was done entirely by ear, but when it was realised that this was not adequate the idea of education by handicraft was introduced.

Education by Eye.

Recently the method of education by eye has been introduced, and it is here that it is expected that museums will play an important part in school education in the future. By the inspection of exhibits under proper guidance, children can be taught natural history and the history of man. They learn and remember more easily when they see the actual objects than when they see pictures of them only. Competent curators to explain the exhibits are an essential.

In 1927 a national museum to illustrate the history of Wales and to allow visitors to see the natural history of the country was opened at Cardiff. All the small museums throughout the country with one exception are now working under a single head. The National Museum holds a summer school each year to train the curators and instructors of these museums.

Exchange Exhibits.

Inspectors make visits and reports on the member museums. The National Museum also takes charge of objects of national importance and sees that they are properly displayed. This valuable service is now being adopted in various parts of England. It leads to co-operation and exchange of exhibits which is of value to the members.

As this is his first visit to Canada Dr. Fox was unable to comment on the quality of Canadian museums, but after his visit he expects to be able to do so.

R.V.C. '34 Met

Class Pictures To Be Taken Next Friday

At a meeting yesterday in the Arts Building, R.V.C. '34 decided that a better acquaintance was necessary between the freshmen and the sophomores of R.V.C., and made tentative plans for an informal gathering, which would also make the students of second year better known to each other. Nothing definite could be decided, however, as there was only the very small attendance of twenty-five coeds. Another meeting will be called very shortly, and it is hoped that a larger percentage of students will attend, as this proposal is rather novel in its way, and should arouse more interest.

It was also announced that the class picture would be taken next Friday, on the steps of R.V.C., and all R.V.C. '34 are earnestly requested to make an appearance.

Large Attendance Views Workshop's Three Productions

Are Held In Association Hall
Of Central
Y.M.C.A.

TALENT DISCOVERED

"The Valiant," "Potion Scene", and "Evening Dress Indispensible" Presented

Before a large crowd which exceeded all expectations, the McGill Players' Club Workshop presented two one-act plays and a monologue in the Association Hall of the Central Y.M.C.A. The "piece de resistance" of the evening was "The Valiant" by Hall and Middlemass, which was extremely well acted by the cast, and by Gordon Leclaire who took the role of James Dyke, in particular. The plays were under his direction.

The first play of the evening was "Evening Dress Indispensible" by Roland Pertwee. It was an entertaining comedy, which kept the audience amused all through. Between the two plays, Elma Ferrigard gave the "potion scene" from Shakespeare's great tragedy. On the whole it was a very successful evening.

Light Comedy

The first presentation was a modern comedy, based on the story of a girl who was addicted to modernistic painting and all that goes with it. The part was played by Barbara Meagher, who represented a very superior young lady who had no interest but in the acquisition of knowledge. Her mother, played by Jacqueline Sprinkle, was disappointed in her daughter's unnatural attitude and wished her to marry Geoffrey, her only remaining suitor. Finally by a clever plan, the daughter became normal and married the young man. The part of George the mother's suitor was played by E. McDougall, and that of Geoffrey by P. M. Beattie. Betty Stewart took the part of the maid Nellie.

The Potion Scene

Elma Ferrigard then appeared as Juliet, clothed appropriately in a gown of white silk and a cap. She enacted the scene in the play, when

Cercle Francais Commences Year

Informal Debate Won By Affirmative Side

In an informal debate, held last night, at the first meeting of the Cercle Francais in the Grill Room of the Union, the affirmative side successfully defended the motion, "Resolved that the amalgamation of the Cercle Francais with the Societe Francaise is now desirable." S. H. Montgomery and P. Weissberger supported the affirmative, whilst W. B. B. and A. Leroux upheld the negative.

The main argument presented by the affirmative was that the presence of young ladies would considerably augment the attendance, whereas the negative claimed that a mixed gathering would spoil the aims of the club in so much as the members would pay more attention to one another than to the business on hand.

The affirmative arguments, however, proved more popular and the verdict was awarded in favor of Montgomery and Weissberger by a slight majority. Prof. D. H. H. served, honorary president, then addressed the members and expressed his appreciation of the weight-carrying arguments presented by the affirmative side, and his satisfaction at the outcome of the debate, as himself was in favor of this phase of the motion.

Prof. Lemaitre was called upon to speak but excused himself from speaking at length on the plea of being a guest. He pointed out, however, that the abolition of the annual fee of one dollar would greatly help the membership of the Cercle and concurred with Prof. D. H. H. in serving that an amalgamation of the two clubs would be of mutual interest.

S. H. Montgomery was unanimously elected to the position of secretary to fill the place of V. S. Leptine, who failed to return to college. Plans are under way for a joint meeting to be held some time before Christmas and the Executive of the Cercle were of the opinion that the present year will be as successful as is possible to desire.

Petty Cheating

Petty cheating is always despicable. It is particularly so when indulged in by supposedly intelligent and trustworthy persons whose positions in the community should put them above small dishonesties.

Yet, with the purpose of saving a few dollars in the course of the year, about 50 McGill students have not hesitated to beamirch the name of this University by being party to a cheap trickery worthy of sneak-thieves. They have deliberately falsified their birth dates on applications to the Montreal Tramways Company for passes which give them the privilege of riding at the same rate as the school children of this city.

Such meanness is not what one would expect from those who have been exposed to the benefits of a liberal education. Yet there are instances of students of 22 and 23, well over the age of discretion, solemnly swearing themselves to be still under the age of 18. Perhaps they are unconsciously right. The whole business is typical of immature minds.

The chief objection is not directed towards the private immorality of those concerned. The rub is that these persons are acting as students of the University and as such are causing others to doubt the integrity of the student body as a whole. The Tramways Company has intimated that if these misdeeds continue the pass privilege will be withdrawn from all students, even from those who are legally entitled to it. Moreover, it is embarrassing for the University officials to be forced to admit that some of the students under their care are liars.

The Council promises to make an example of those who persist in making this falsification in the future. Through the columns of the Daily they will be summoned to appear before that body and be dealt with insofar as the Council's powers allow. Students are also reminded that it is within the powers of the University to discipline any student found guilty of immoral or dishonest deeds.

After all, an adult should be ashamed to be in the same class as a child scarcely out of the cradle.

The Art Of Being Lazy

This is indeed a strange title with which to grace an editorial in this time of 20th century efficiency systems, memory courses, and all sorts of get-mentally-rich-quick devices. Really, we should exhort the student to emulate the example of the busy little bee, or of the diminutive ant, who staggers manfully along under a load many times his own size. Solomon, during a lull in his matrimonial disturbances, commended the industrious ways of this tiny creature to his readers, and ever since then the ant has been a wide-spread emblem of industry.

However, it is sometimes well to stop worrying about the golden minutes as they pass silently along; they are important, but it is just as important that we should take time to think. It is in this sense that our title was suggested. Pure laziness is an abominable characteristic, but a quiet, thoughtful period of rest now and then is more of a necessity than a luxury. The man who can take time to tip back his chair occasionally and dreamily watch the blue clouds of fragrant tobacco smoke float upwards from his pipe may appear to be just lazy, but from these "pipe dreams," as they are called, may spring a thought or an ideal that may be grasped upon and moulded into some enduring work of art or literature that some day will prove of great benefit to humanity.

There is another aspect to this question. The man who has time to stop and talk with his brother man will learn much from their mutual intercourse. The interchange of ideas stirs up the intellect; problems will be seen from different viewpoints; intellect will be broadened and the man will find as time goes on that this genial friendship with his fellow beings is profitable as well as pleasurable.

It is by thought that we are enabled to order our lives well and wisely, and it is by association with our fellow men that we learn the wonder and beauty of friendship. If we have neither time to think nor to cultivate friendship, our lives will not count for much even if we have not wasted any golden minutes. Let our golden minutes be divided equally between work, thought and friendship, then will our lives be well rounded out; profitable to others as well as to ourselves.

Prefatory Remarks

Our work has so far been favourably received. It is very encouraging to learn for instance that our articles have been assigned as compulsory reading (they would not otherwise be read) in Divinity Hall and other departments of Social Sciences. We, accordingly invite honour students and younger members of the staff to write to the authors pointing out their (the authors') errors in reasoning. A prize will be given to the boy or girl who indicates the greatest number of logical fallacies, giving their Latin names and several illustrations for our future use. We shall also give a prize for the remainder of the limerick commencing: "Then out spoke the Bay of Algiers". Both prizes will under no circumstances be awarded to the same person.

We cannot enter into any correspondence regarding the entries in these competitions, nor will any of them be returned. If unable to complete the given limerick any one will do as a matter of fact. We are also in the market for daring witticisms, doubtful aphorisms, a limited quantity of phallic epigrams, and old numbers of La Vie Parisienne. The right neither to print nor pay for these is reserved by the editors.

In case of a tie between two contestants both winners will have the privilege of treating the editors to malt extract. And remember, neatness counts.

Article III

Cleanliness Is Next To Godliness

This article is badly drafted, and should be revised. It does not mean what it appears to say. Godliness is the state of being like God, and by definition includes all virtues. The proposition says that cleanliness is next to Godliness. It is therefore not a part of Godliness, and, a fortiori, not a virtue. This is a sound conclusion. The odour of sanctity has never been particularly sweet. Christianity has for most of its history been other-worldliness. The body was of this world and therefore sinful and to be neglected in the interests of the soul. How this attitude was reconciled to the doctrine of the resurrection of the body, it would take a medieval schoolman to explain. It is also interesting to speculate on the conveniences which have been prepared for the body in heaven. They are probably done in mother-o-pearl. The main fact to remember is that Medieval Europe led by the clergy had a low opinion of personal cleanliness. The cold bath was almost unknown and only taken by accident and by switches. The rich would occasionally take hot baths but these were condemned as a luxury.

Indeed no such emphasis would ever have been put on personal cleanliness but for the invention of convenient methods of getting into hot water. People bathe in this way because they like its utilitarian effect. It is a pleasurable sensation to the skin, this warm rubbing and soaping, not to mention the vigorous towelling afterwards. It cannot be far removed from sensuality, and is consequently very far removed, at least theoretically, from Godliness. Washing in the blood of the Lamb is in the same category. People will erect their pleasures into virtue. Let's go.

Article IV

Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house; thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife—nor anything that is thy neighbour's.

At least two terms used in this article require careful definition and elucidation. First, what do we understand by the term "to covet" and secondly what is meant by neighbour in this case. To covet as the best usage has it is to desire strongly, and we shall adhere to this interpretation for the purposes of this commentary. It is also evident a priori that neighbour here means any fellow human, be he Swiss or Senegambian. (viz. P. Q. Wehrhau, Die Vergleichende Anatomie, page 1283 et seq.)

Therefore, according to the article, we are forbidden to desire strongly anything not belonging to us, at any time, anywhere, under any circumstances. Ambition is prohibited, for it is the essence of ambition to desire ardently to succeed, and success implies competition in a certain field, which presupposes a coveted prize, which is, as we said forbidden.

We see now why the article in its present form has never been obeyed, for it implies a cessation of useful activity, the complete suspension of commerce and industry, which after all are the cornerstones of our civilization. It signifies stagnation and complete inertia, a condition both unsatisfactory and unproductive.

It has been objected by certain authorities (vide Cadvalader and Flachkopf "Ethics in the Ketchup Industry" p. 845 footnote, and Jan Chrysostom Pasek "Summa Theologica" caput XXIV) that in as much as all property belongs to God it is lawful and not contrary to His commandments to covet it, though it "belongs" in the sense of this world, to one of our neighbours. As it is written: "For mine is the silver and mine the gold etc." But who will be so brazen as to deny that God is our neighbour?

The section of this article dealing with our neighbours' wives deserves separate consideration. An exhaustive and all-embracing survey of this subject will be made in the near future by competent sociologists and the results published in these columns.

"Gentlemen of the jury," said an emphatic barrister in concluding his appeal, "It is for you to say whether the defendant shall be allowed to come into court with unblushing footsteps, and with the cloak of hypocrisy in his mouth, draw three bullocks from my client's pockets with impunity."

If I were asked to suggest in a single sentence the essential difference between the Latin and the Anglo-Saxon, I should perhaps put it this way: to the Latin sex is an hors d'oeuvre; to the Anglo-Saxon, sex is a barbecue.

THE KINEMA

By Klieg

WE hear a great deal, these days, of the European motion picture industry: the new companies which are being formed and the work that is being carried on; and then sometimes we see the actual finished products themselves. If we should visit one of the houses where the films are shown in Europe, I think that we should notice quite a few differences from our own picture houses.

Take for example, the Berlin theatres. Here we should notice many things. First attracting our attention, would be the interior decoration, for these places are entirely void of all gold paint and elaborate fittings. The walls of the theatre are decorated in a very simple manner and the effects are accomplished in solid colours. There are no aisles in the theatre, the doors are all at the sides. In the lobby we should be surprised further, in discovering that here, we might have a slight repast of such German delicacies as potato salad, liverwurst, and beer.

We might be surprised to learn that there are but two performances a day or rather, I should say, two a night, these are given at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m.—If we should have the misfortune to be late for one of the shows, we should be disappointed to learn that we would not be admitted to the house, unless there happened to be vacant seats, for no standing is allowed in these theatres, only the same number of tickets being sold each time as there are seats in the house.

The program is different from ours. First there is almost always a long, jingling act, which although rather hard and difficult to perform, is tedious to watch. This is followed by a news reel, generally one half Paramount, and the other half UFA. Then, the main feature picture is shown. This completes the program; now we may retire to enjoy another stein of beer. Thus we pass the evening in a Berlin theatre.

And now to resume the topic of pictures which we see in our own theatres.

Last week I had the privilege of seeing one of the most natural actresses of the screen, in the person of Barbara Stanwyck whose performance in "Night Nurse" seen at the Capitol Theatre, was worthy of high praise. Her complete naturalness combined with good acting ability makes any picture this lady plays in, a success. Watch for her next picture, "The Miracle Woman". This I believe, is to be shown at the Princess Theatre as soon as the crowds diminish for the Cantor picture, now in its third week's run.

The night I went to see "Palmy Days", I waited 20 minutes before I even got to the box office. Imagine my amazement when I arrived at the theatre, (but probably many of you had the same experience) and found that there was a line-up which extended almost a block along St. Catherine St. But the wait was worth while; the show was good. Nor was I disappointed in the shorter subjects which completed the program. If you want a laugh, see this picture, Cantor is at his best.

George Arliss' latest picture, "Alexander Hamilton" is here at last. (At the Palace Theatre this week.) After the splendid performances of "Disraeli", "The Green Goddess", and "The Millionaire", we attended this film with pleasure. Mr. Arliss again gives one of his superb performances, and the picture itself is even more dramatic than "Disraeli".

Perhaps one of the most remarkable films that has been brought to the eye of the public on account of its wonderful photography and remarkable Arctic scenes is "The Vikings". (Now showing at the Orpheum Theatre.) This picture while in the making, cost the lives of Varick Frisell, the producer, and 25 other men in the Sæler Viking disaster.

Although this picture was shown in the city earlier in the season, it is the first time that it is being run at popular prices. This picture will give a genuine thrill to all those who see it.

Correspondence

The Editor,
McGill Daily,
McGill University,
Montreal.

Dear Sir:

The Registrar of the University has brought to the attention of the Students' Council a rather serious situation in regard to the abuse of the reduced rate privilege extended by the Montreal Tramways Company to students under the age of eighteen years.

In order to secure this reduced fare, applicants are required to state their date of birth. This signed information is then submitted by the Tramways Company to the Registrar, who is asked to confirm the accuracy of the statement. The Registrar informs the Students' Council that McGill students to the number of approximately 50—both men and women—have inserted a false date of birth in order to come within the eighteen year age limit. The Registrar has been forced in each case to notify the Tramways Company that the students in question have given false information.

Aside from any question of personal honour involved, it is by no means a good reflection on the University for the Registrar to have to cross out so many names on grounds of misrepresentation.

The situation becomes further complicated when it is quite apparent that the Tramways Company will possibly cease granting the privilege to all eligible University students because of the abuse accorded it by a minority.

At a meeting of the Students' Council last evening, it was unanimously decided that any students making the above misrepresentation in future will be summoned before the Council with consequent publicity. The Registrar has agreed to forward the names of all offenders in the future.

The Council desires that this warning be given due prominence in the columns of the "Daily".

Signed on behalf of the Students' Executive Council.

An Apology

The Editor,
McGill Daily,

Dear Sir:

As one of the Queen's supporters who so ably painted the McGill Stadium in the early hours of Saturday morning last, I wish to tender our deepest apologies for the regrettable incident of painting your memorial flag pole. I am sure, that had we known it was a memorial, no such thing would have happened, but it being so dark at that hour the engraved base did not show up and we assumed that it was "just a flag pole."

We hope that there will be no ill feeling between McGill and Queen's over this affair and we wish you luck in your coming encounter with Varsity and Western.

On Disarmament

The Editor,
McGill Daily.

Dear Sir:

No one can at the moment be unaware of the petition being circulated among the students; which petition hopefully aims (indirectly) at disarmament. The general reasons, as far as I can see, for signing the petition are

(a) Armaments are the greatest obstacles in the way of economic recovery, and chiefly

(b) The horror of war and the train of disasters which follow it.

Now as far as (a) goes, I am unable to understand and nobody has yet explained clearly to me, why armaments are the greatest obstacles in the way of economic recovery.

I heartily agree with (b). War is a terrible thing, bringing even more terrible disasters in its wake. But just reducing armaments to a zero will not prevent war. The Germans for some years after the Great War were limited in the number and tonnage of their fighting ships. They built their famous "pocket battleship," which startled the great naval powers. Until 1930 Germany was allowed to build no military, naval or fighting aeroplanes—instead they built fast "mail planes" and transport machines that could be transformed in less than an hour into rather efficient fighting machines. Union Ballroom To Be Scene Of Novel Fights

Ewen vs Lane Is Welterweight Exhibition Feature — Toe To Toe Slugging Expected As Frosh Settle Disputes — Last Minute Bouts Accepted By Coach Light — All Students Invited To Work Off Grudges.

TONIGHT is the night of nights for the freshmen. Not often given the chance to appear in the limelight, hordes of first year men have availed themselves of the opportunity offered by the B.W.F. Club to display their wares before upperclassmen. So pugilistic have the frosh shown themselves to be, that hard-boiled sophomores are going around thanking their stars that initiation has been abolished.

Plays Hockey And Football

HARRY GRIFFITHS, is having a busy time just now working out with the hockey team early in the afternoon, and then practicing with the senior rugby squad, who are preparing for the Varsity game to be played in Toronto this Saturday.

Poloists Commence Intensive Training

Both Squads Hold Practice This Afternoon

SENIORS VS JUNIORS

THIS evening the polo squads will start a week of intensive practice when they commence a period of comparative inactivity. The senior team will not play in the league again for almost two weeks and the junior squad will have a layoff until next Monday night when they meet the M. A. A. Blues in their next scheduled game in the Knights of Columbus pool. The teams have been having a fairly tough program on their hands for the past week or two and the rest will be very welcome both to them and to the coach who has had little chance to train the players in the fine points of the game due to the rapid succession of league contests.

Resume Practices.

The regular practice sessions will be resumed for both squads this afternoon, and the coach expects that all candidates for both teams will be present in order to get in a real session of hard work, something which the squad has not done since the regular season started. The biggest item on the agenda for this evening is a practice game between the senior and junior squads. Harry Mercereau, a player on last year's seniors will handle the whistle and he will leave Coach Fisk free to direct the practice and to observe the form of all the players. As Harry Mercereau is officiating this year on the board of referees, he should be well up on the rules and regulations of the game and has signified his intention of giving a strict interpretation of the rules in order to give the younger players an idea of why they have been receiving penalties in the games to date. It has been a noticeable thing that some of the junior men have been penalized without the slightest knowledge that they have been committing offences against the code.

Use Relays.

Coach Fisk proposes to send relays of the youngsters against the senior team and he will probably give every man a chance to see what he can do against the senior squad. By

Keen on Fighting

The freshmen themselves welcome the assault with delight, for being so long held in subjugation they are aching to show the spectators just how first year can fight. This class is setting a marvelous example in turning out in such strength, and if future years show the same spirit McGill will have little to worry about as far as sport is concerned.

Outside Judges

Participants will be sure of a square deal because two outside judges have been appointed, namely W. T. Burns and Barney Musselman. Bert Light, McGill's versatile boxing coach will be the referee and announces that all fights will be three rounds and for it to a decision. No favoritism will be shown and as a consequence each bout will be a great scrap. Experienced seconds will be in each corner to offer advice to the fighters many of whom will be making their first appearance in the ring.

Several Wrestling Bouts?

Several Wrestling bouts are scheduled to take place and this will be the first opportunity that this year's matmen have had to demonstrate their ability. The wrestlers have progressed considerably and should display some fast action.

The outstanding event in this ought to be the heavyweight exhibition tilt between Tedford and Painter. Tedford is a veteran of the squad but Painter is a newcomer with considerable ability and shows promise of being one of the best heavyweights McGill has had for some time.

Freshmen have of late been rather lax in turning out for wrestling and are advised that excellent opportunities are offered in this club. It is believed that there are at present many men at college who could easily make themselves into intercollegiate champions if they turned out and showed their spirit by helping McGill along. Any men who are interested and who would like to join in the show tomorrow are advised to be at the Union tonight before 8 p.m. and a suitable match will be arranged for them.

Commences at 8.15

The first bout is scheduled to start sharp at 8.15, and as ringside seats will be at a premium spectators are advised to come early and avoid the rush. Manager Dave Lack and Coach Light have worked hard over the program and promise a varied evening's entertainment. Both declare that this year's freshmen will go far in the intercollegiate contest and are exultant over the wealth of boxing material turning out at the workouts.

No admission will be charged and this will be a hit in itself. It is expected that a bumper crowd will be on hand to witness the first freshmen B.W. and F assault. All freshmen who have any grudge against each other are invited to attend and settle their differences in the ring. Last minute entries will be gladly received and anybody else who desires to fight will be accommodated by match-maker Bert Light.

This means the seniors and juniors will both get in a good deal of work and the juniors will not be taxed beyond their strength in dealing with the speed of Munroe Bourne and the other speedsters on the senior forward line.

The junior lads have been putting up a much improved showing in their last one or two games and it is believed by those who are in a position to know that they will provide lots of opposition for the more highly rated teams in the league before the season is finished. If the players will only turn out and work their hardest they will be fine material from which to select next year's seniors.

Still Opportunity.

The coach wishes to emphasize that there is still opportunity for any young players to make the junior line-up. Although the juniors have preselected the same team for the last few games, there is still a very good chance for the other freshmen who have been turning out with the team but who have not as yet been selected to play in any league games. The coach has been unable to make any changes in the team lately due to the rapid succession of games, but the juniors have not yet been definitely selected, and it may be that there will not be any regular lineup selected all season, the coach putting in the

Fast Forward Hitting Stride

JACK MCGILL, one of last year's freshmen who helped win the Championship of Quebec for the McGill Hockey Club, is already showing good form in the first workouts of the season.

Few Turn Out At Second Practice Of Bird Chasers

ONLY five players turned out at the second practice of the season held by the McGill Badminton Club on the courts of the Montreal High School last night. Those made up in enthusiasm what they lacked in numbers and continued playing until they were kicked off the courts by the janitor.

A fair brand of play was exhibited by those on hand and as all but one are newcomers to the club this augurs well for the success of the coming season. The lack of birds in the Union lockshop was a reason given for the small turn-out and this will be remedied next week.

Ladder Competition

The ladder competition has not yet been put into operation but this should be going in the near future. Players are reminded that their names cannot be put on the ladder until they have definitely signed up with the club and are advised to communicate with Brodie Hicks in the Engineering building at any time or in the Montreal High on Tuesday nights from 7 to 9.30 when regular practices are held.

Physical Co-Eds End Tennis Season With Tournament

Juniors and Seniors Play Inter-Class Competitions

MEIDA CLARKSON defeated Ruth Paterson in the final round of the M.S.T.E. junior year tennis tournament. The juniors, most of whom played tennis seriously for the first time this season, showed good style and every player put up a keen fight before admitting defeat to an opponent.

Ruth Paterson and Bert Weeks playing as partners in the doubles came up against hard opposition when they defeated Ruth Hope and Doris Henry in the semi-finals.

The senior year has been less successful in their class tournament owing largely to the fact that they lost time on account of unfavourable weather and now the season is over and their singles tennis tournament remains unfinished until April. The doubles was won by Marie Snowden and Louise Collet. They both have the strokes and combining this with their own game gave a demonstration of tennis as it should be played. In their combined efforts they did some excellent team work.

Players as he considers them to be sufficiently capable. This will give any man who has attended any practices at all a good chance to attain proficiency in the sport before the end of the season. All members of the squad who have been out this year even if they have not been down for a week or two are urged to attend tonight's practice and they will be given a chance to show what they can do.

SENIOR HOCKEYISTS—HOLD SEASON'S SECOND PRACTICE

Doherty, Ward and McGillivray Are Only Absentees

Play Canadiens Next Wednesday In League Opener

McGill's senior hockey team held their second practice of the season yesterday afternoon at the Forum. Coach Bob Bell had sixteen men in uniform, and kept them going at a fast clip the entire 60 minutes, trying out various combinations of forwards. All of the players who are expected to make places on this year's team were there, with the exception of Bert McGillivray, Ruks Ward, and D'Arcy Doherty. McGillivray and Doherty are out with the football squad at present, and are practicing hard for the tilt with Varsity in Toronto this Saturday.

While all the players are still trying to find their legs, and have a long way to go before they are in proper condition for a league game, there was a semblance of real hockey in the practice.

Maurice Powers and Holly McHugh were given plenty of opportunity to make good saves as Farmer, Farquharson, McGill, Robertson and others stick-handled their way in close for hard drives.

Dunc Munro Practices

Dunc Munro, late coach of the Montreal Maroons, and also one of the best defencemen in professional hockey when he is going right, turned out with the McGill squad yesterday, and teamed up with Nels Crutchfield in front of McHugh. Munro was wearing about three sweaters, which indicated that he is trying to get back into condition, to play hockey again this winter.

Jack McGill seems to be going about the best of them all just now, and bored in for a couple of pretty goals in the practice. He was lined up with Farquharson and Gordon Crutchfield most of the hour, who also showed promise of soon being in form. Farquharson, winner of the trophy for the most valuable player to his team in the City League last winter, should have an even better season this year. The experience gained in the hectic play-off games with Columbus, M.A.A.A. and St. Francois Xavier made the entire squad look like a new team at the end of the series.

NELS CRUTCHFIELD, an important cog in McGill's championship hockey squad of last year, as he could play any position effectively, will probably be placed on the defence permanently this season.

Soccermen To Play International Game

Meet Springfield On Stadium Saturday Morning

PRACTICE TODAY

THE McGill Senior Soccer Eleven will play their last game of the season and incidentally their only international game when they meet Springfield on Saturday on the Campus at 12 noon.

The lads from over the border are boasting a record of no defeats all season and the Red and White will have to do some fast stepping if they are to humble their visitors. The teams have met a couple of times in the past and two years ago at least the Redmen were forced to bite the dust.

The contest will be played under the American Intercollegiate rules which provide for four quarters of twenty minutes and for four substitutions. It is expected that McGill will use to the full the opportunities allowed by this last rule and it is possible that several men from MacDonald College will be used in the Red and White line-up.

A practice will be held this afternoon at which the team will be finally chosen. This has interfered with the interfaculty match which was to have been played between Arts and Engineering and in consequence this contest has been postponed until next week. The Theology and MacDonald teams will clash on the upper stadium at four o'clock Friday afternoon.

Tomorrow the seconds meet the Montreal High school in their second game this season. The strength of their opponents is absolutely unknown but McGill should have very little difficulty in beating them.

Mrs. Donald on Saturday, November the seventh.

Law will play Medicine on Monday November the ninth.

The commerce team and those who gyped their way into a trip will leave the Union at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday. Each man must pay fifty cents to help make up the cost of the trip.

Another Recruit May Strengthen Football Frontier

MacGregor Latest Arrival In Camp As Seniors Practice

CHURCH FINISHED

COACH Shaughnessy had the senior football team back in action again last night for a couple of hours scrimmaging with the freshmen, and working on the dummies in preparation for the Varsity game this Saturday. A feature of this workout was a new recruit, MacGregor, who is following the lead of Stevens, Watson, and Clift, and helping to bolster the senior squad for the last few games.

MacGregor is also from Medicine, and has played in interfaculty football games. He is a well built player, and if he makes the grade should add a great deal of strength to the line, which is badly weakened by Harry Church's absence through injury. It is not likely that Church will be able to take his place at middie wing again for his ankle is very weak. He tried to play against Queen's, and even with his leg heavily braced he was only able to last a few minutes. His loss is a serious one to the redmen.

Varsity Out To Win

While the seniors have beaten Varsity here already this season they are not taking the jaunt to the Queen City lightly, for they realize that the blue and white are fighting mad to get into the win column. There have not been many, if any, football seasons when Varsity has not won at least one game. At that McGill only trimmed the blue and white here in the last minute of a thrilling game, and will find the going tougher in the Toronto Stadium.

All the same the redmen are favored to win. Under "Shag's" coaching methods and experience they have come on marvelously this season, and probably are just as strong a squad as Queen's or Western who (Continued on Page Four)

The last play was the best of the evening. The whole cast was very good. Gordon Leclair played his part extremely well and realistically. Margaret Miller took the role of Josephine Paris. She handled a difficult part with great ability. The Warden, Burton Halsey, and Father Daly, R. Halford, were also good.

It is the story of an unknown man who is sentenced to death for murder. The scene opens an hour or two before the time of his execution. He has kept his identity secret to protect his family's honor. Senior Hockeyists Hold Season's Second Practice winter, will probably line up on the ice with Bert McGillivray. Crutchfield looked good yesterday, although he was not skating as easily as he will in a few days, of course. His brother, Gordon, who will be able to play in the City League games if he qualifies for the team, is a speedy skater. He held right win for Shawinigan last year, which is a good qualification for any player. Another week will show just how he matches up with the rest of the squad, but right now Coach Bell believes he will make the grade.

Johnnie Riddell, captain of the freshman football team, was at the practice and looks about the best of the newcomers. Riddell is a heavily built lad, who plays defence, and goes right after the puck like a dorkie for watermelon. Gordon McNeill also looks like a good prospect for front line duty in the future. However, he has plenty of competition from Harry Griffiths, Gordon Johnson, Tom Morse, and Ted Broome, who are all practicing with the seniors.

Play Canadians First

Only one week remains now before the City League opens. On Armistice night, the redmen stack up against Canadians, the French team who are cornering the majority of press notices these days on pre-season predictions. This team does look like potential champions, but James McGill's representatives are working to take a fall out of the flying Frenchmen right at the start. Lack of enthusiasm will not be a cause of failure at least.

The above are just examples of partly limited and completely limited armaments. I have absolutely no doubt that should international disarmament be arrived at, each nation would prepare secretly for action; attack being the best means of defense. When the navy is scrapped, Britain's immense mercantile fleet is then a weapon. Can anyone imagine the nations being left behind in ships. Transport aeroplanes are now an effective weapon; even the police force and Boy Scouts. Armaments can not be reduced to nothing, because immediately you make no more rifles, a sporting shot-gun is a weapon. The prohibition of the shot-gun allows bows and arrows, slings, anything. At the very end are human fists and clubs. There will be always more of some weapon in country A than in country B. Consequently B has to (solely for the purpose of defence, of course) make an improved weapon. And you cannot stop chemists discovering new poisonous gases, new explosives, or even a "death ray". Circulate a petition among the students. Disarmament may be achieved on the surface, but there is always a new surface underneath.

Yours sincerely,
B. S.

Full attendance of the executive is requested.

Low Temperature Carbonization Is Topic Of Lecture

ed by instructive slides on the lantern.

Most low temperature carbonization of coal has been carried out in England although the United States and Germany have also erected several plants. Canadian research on this matter is comparatively new, but a plant of the Lurgi type is running intermittently in Saskatchewan under the supervision of the Government of that Province.

Mr. Tasker demonstrated by means of a comparison of cost and selling price that with even the most favourable prices, coke and its by-products, when produced by low temperature carbonization, cannot in the immediate future be on a commercially satisfactory basis.

Another Recruit May Strengthen Football Frontier

are fighting it out for the championship. There certainly is no team in the circuit that are as fast, or can use the forward pass as handily as Don Young and company.

So a large number of students are making the long trip to Toronto confident that they will see McGill win there for the first time since 1923, the year the title was brought here after an extra play-off game with the blue and white. Although nothing is a stake in this game except reputation that is more than enough to make these two fine teams fight to the last whistle for the long end of the score.

The squad are in fine shape, with the exception of Church. The play of Doherty and Hammond this year has not been excelled by any backfield combination, and they are out to garner a few more long gains against Varsity. Krukowski is handling the pivot duties like a veteran in the Canadian game, and is one of the best tacklers on the team. Just how many yards Olker has made on plunges this season is hard to estimate, while his tackling and speed has also been of inestimable value to the team.

With a fighting line in front of this backfield quartet it is hard to understand just why McGill's name is not at the head of the Intercollegiate league this year. But that matters little now that the milk is split—all honour to a team that goes down fighting as the redmen did. Those are also the sentiments of Varsity towards their squad who have only been nosed out after thrilling finishes. It all points to a regular old get-together on Saturday, and it won't be a pink tea affair either.

Keep Pace With Evolution

DARWIN declared that the human race was merely an evolution of the monkey tribe. Some people agree with him. Others do not.

But there is no denying that even within the memory of most of us, there has been a considerable evolution in the human mode of living. And today, this evolution is buzzing along faster than ever.

There has never been a time when conditions changed so rapidly — when life bettered itself so consistently. New comforts and conveniences are coming in all the time. And the rapidity with which they are invented and put before us vitally affects us all.

To take advantage of these things, you must keep yourself informed. You must know not only what they are, but also how much they cost and where and how to get them.

The only way you can know this is to be a regular reader of the advertisements.

Advertisements tell of all that the world is doing to make you more comfortable, your work easier, your methods better, your clothing and food problems less irksome. They tell you how you can save time — and effort — and money in the selection of the things that make life worth while.

Advertisements are interesting, instructive and highly profitable to you.
